My dad is fun to listen to. His stories are fun and exciting. My dad is a very funny guy and his childhood sounded fun.

We was just getting done bowhunting and it was raining hard and that made us go faster to the truck we started the truck and the windshield wipers was not working.

"What are we going to do?"

"I don't know."

"Lets just what until the rain stops."

"But it will too muddy and then we will get stuck."

"What is wrong with the wipers ?"

"I don't know."

We sat there in there in the car thinking and a couple of minutes later we found away to move the wind shield wipers.

"We will take turns moving them by hands. Me first".

"Tell me when you get to cold."

] We drove down the canyon and it was working pretty good. It was not to bad until we got to the highway, then we got a tarp and then we put it over us so it would keep us warmer

We got home finally and I can't remember what was wrong with them.

My dad had fun time when he was younger and he has Fun time telling people about his youth, the stories are funny.

"Lets Get that old car running."

" Ah Ok"

My dad Had this old car out behind his house that has been out there for a long time.

We didn't know if it would run or not so we thought we would try.

"pop the hood, it looks good try to start it. Lets take the hood off so we can work on it easier."

We worked on it for a couple of days. we tuned it up and fixed the timing. then got good tires on it and then we got a battery and still it would not run.

"What is wrong with this thing?"

"Maybe if we poured gas down the carburetor while the engine is turning over it will start.

It worked and then we decided to take it for a ride. we still had the hood off and there was a person pouring gas down it will another was driving. We went down the dip road going into Castle Dale and then we turned up the hill and parked to trade places and then a cop drove up and then he started to write up a ticket and Steven hurried and thought and bluffed "I own this property." Then the cop drove away.
